

Kevin Hulbert

Member, Board of Advisors

kevin.hulbert@redwoodglobalinc.com

Professional Experience

Kevin enjoyed a distinguished career with the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), where he held a variety of high-level jobs and became an expert on counterterrorism, counterproliferation, counterintelligence, human intelligence (HUMINT), Latin America, South Asia, non-traditional operations, cybersecurity and covert action. An accomplished senior leader in the CIA's Directorate of Operations, Kevin has spent many years analyzing political and security issues around the world and responding to requests to deliver high-level briefings to the intelligence community, Congress and White House policy makers on a variety of issues. He has also collaborated extensively with multiple foreign liaison partners, particularly in the areas of counterproliferation and counterterrorism. From an overseas location, Kevin led some of the Agency's most complex counterterrorism operations abroad.

Kevin's final job in government service was with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), where he held the position of senior liaison for counterterrorism. Having spent years in the intelligence community dealing with some of the most complex issues facing our national security, Kevin is well positioned to advise your company on overcoming the political, bureaucratic and cultural obstacles that matter to your bottom line.

Kevin is fluent in English and Spanish and holds current TS/SCI (Top Secret/Sensitive Compartmented Information) clearances, with full background investigation and polygraph. Before government service, Kevin worked in real estate development and finance.